FEIGHAN'S FEAR OVER 'SUB-STANDARD' SCHEMES

Frank Feighan TD has warned Minister of Agriculture of the consequences of implementing the sub-standard Agri-Environment Option Scheme, saying that it is fundamentally flawed and will not deliver.

"The scheme is constructed in such a manner that it potentially could unravel the environmental gain of REPS 2,3 and 4. The specifications of the scheme are so demanding that it threatens to exclude those who need the financial rewards of such a scheme most.

"Here in Roscommon and Leitrim, there was major uptake of previous schemes to the benefit of countryside and rural economy and retained a generation of young people farming and this is now facing serious attack. The scrapping of REPS will withdraw in the region of €211 million from the rural economy over the next two years, impacting on 32,465 farmers. Fine Gael opposed the suspension of REPS from the outset. The €50 million allocated to the scheme for 2010 is also at risk as the expected uptake due to the restrictive terms and conditions of the scheme, as published, will not be as great as the Government anticipated. It is not too late to amend the scheme and make it more effective and more accessible.

"I am calling on the Minister, even at this late stage, to show some common sense on this issue. REPS has been a hugely successful scheme with over 62,000 participants nationwide. By replacing REPS with the sub-standard Agri-Environment Scheme, the Minister could potentially drive thousands of farmers, whose incomes are already decimated, out of farming completely."
