Turn your gold into cash at Hatton Goldsmiths

Turn your old gold into cash at Hatton Goldsmiths in Roscommon. Located at Main Street, Roscommon (beside King Communications), Hatton Goldsmiths offers great prices for old gold.

The shop has been open for a few weeks now and reports great business, having already built up a base of satisfied customers. Staff at the store is headed up by local Roscommon man Niall Gordon.

Store spokesperson John McKay, speaking to Roscommon People earlier this week said, "The response to date has been very good, particularly in response to the editorial in Roscommon People." Asked what people are bringing in to the store, John reported, "People are bringing in gold jewellery that they don't want to wear. Silver has become more popular in recent years. People are often genuinely surprised. Some people bring in a bagful of old jewellery, broken jewellery, chains and bracelets and often they end up getting more cash than they anticipated.

Hatton Goldsmiths has five stores at the moment, in Roscommon, Claremorris, Castlebar, Galway and Limerick. People are welcome to bring in their gold in any condition for a free no obligation valuation, where an immediate cash offer is made. Hatton Goldsmiths is owned and run by Tony and Will Nolan. The Nolan family originally moved from Skibbereen in Co. Cork to England some 50 years ago where their father Bill Nolan owned a successful chain of jewellery shops throughout the UK.

Tony was educated at Rockwell College near Cashel in Co. Tipperary and then returned to England to assist his father in growing the family business. Will Nolan is an award winning, fully qualified jeweller trained in the Birmingham jewellery manufacturing area. Tony and Will have now opened Hatton Goldsmiths International, an Irish sister company to their UK operation where they currently run 27 shops.

The shops are open six days a week from 10.30 to 5.30 each day.
