Lamb Festival has heritage at heart

A new aspect to this year's Roscommon Lamb Festival is the many heritage events that are taking place.

With walks all over the county, the festival highlights and appreciates the heritage and natural beauty that Roscommon has to offer for its townspeople and visitors.

On Friday 30th April, there are two walks in Rindoon, Lecarrow with St. John's Heritage Group take place at 3 pm and 6 pm, meeting at Lecarrow Community Centre. Saturday 1st May sees a guided tour of Rathcroghan with NUIG's Joe Fenwick starting from the Cruachan Aí Heritage Centre, Tulsk.

Sunday 2nd May kicks off with a 13-14 km walk for walkers and walking clubs on the Suck Valley Way starting from the Angling Centre in Athleague - please contact Martin Dunne on (087) 2665951 by 26th April.

The festival also has two tours in the county town, the first being a guided walking tour of Roscommon Town with local historian John Kerrigan at 12 pm from the county library. 2.30 pm sees a fascinating architectural tour of Roscommon's Sacred Heart Church with Katriona Byrne, architectural historian and conservation consultant.

All of the heritage events are free to all, however places are limited on certain tours. You can register for free online at www.roscommonlambfestival.com/register and see all the other exciting events that are taking place over the weekend. You can also follow the festival on facebook.com/roscommonlambfestival where you can interact with other fans and share photos and stories from the weekend.
