Michael Bublé tribute in JJ's

Fans of Michael Bublé will be delighted to learn that a Michael Bublé tribute band will perform live in JJ's Bar, The Square, Roscommon, this Saturday night, July 24th.

The Band have been touring the length and breadth of Ireland attracting crowds in their masses. Michael Bublé has recorded his fourth studio album, 'Crazy love', and has 25 million album sales and two Grammy nominations under his belt. The Michael Bublé tribute show is less of a tribute and more a re-enactment and direct replication of the man himself. Hailed as a very close sound alike is not enough when it comes to a Michael Bublé tribute show. What makes Michael so popular is his constant touring, massive stage charisma, presence and interaction with his audience.

Performing song's on the night including, 'Haven't met you yet', 'Feeling good', 'Fever', 'Me and Mrs Jones', 'Lost', 'Home', 'Hold on', 'Crazy little thing called love', 'Everything', 'How sweet it is', 'That's Life', 'Save the last dance for me.

The event in JJ's is guaranteed to be a success and a thrilling night for Bublé fans and music lovers alike.

Subway in The Coachman's Inn

Subway are a four piece band who play a variety of music. They have played in venues in Athlone, Moate, Mullingar and many more venues around the country. So get yourself along to the Coachman's Inn, Roscommon this Saturday night for a great night!

New campaign to raise standards in nightclubs

The Irish Nightclub Industry Association (INIA), the national representative body for nightclub owners and operators, this week launched NightSafe, a campaign to set and raise standards in nightclubs across Ireland.

Minister for Justice and Law Reform, Dermot Ahern TD launched the NightSafe initiative. The Garda Commissioner Fachtina Murphy was also in attendance at the launch, which took place in Krystle Nightclub in Dublin and local nightclub owner Larry O'Gara of Rockfords nightclub was among those in attendance.

NightSafe is a national best practice initiative and awards scheme for the Irish Nightclub Industry. NightSafe helps nightclub operators achieve regulatory compliance, introduces additional requirements for responsible trading, and also gives the participants insights into best practice in key operational areas. As part of the scheme, operators are required to develop various policy documents and procedures, in areas such as crowd control, security management, fire safety, Noise Control, Risk Management, Drugs, and the Responsible Serving of Alcohol. The NightSafe programme also includes reference documents, some new and existing training initiatives, and an award scheme following an independent audit.
